

Astro2020

Inclusive Astronomy 2 will be taking place on the eve of the Astronomy 2020 Decadal Survey.

From the National Academies website:

The Decadal Survey on Astronomy and Astrophysics (Astro2020) is a partnership between the National Academies and the astronomical community to identify key priorities in astronomy and astrophysics and develop a comprehensive strategy for agency investments in the upcoming decade.

The survey, sponsored by NASA, NSF, and DOE, will be driven by input from the scientific community and serve as a guide for scientists, policy makers, and federal agencies. The final report will present a broad vision for transformative science at the frontiers of astronomy and astrophysics.

We especially encourage individuals who have submitted Activity, Project or State of the Profession Consideration (APC) white papers to the decadal survey to attend and present at IA2.

The deadline for Astro2020 APC white papers is July 10, 2019.

Learn more about the decadal survey on the National Academies website: <https://sites.nationalacademies.org/DEPS/astro2020/index.htm>